

First, disconnect yourself even more from your fraternity, especially if you only joined to win ASUN elections and that was no longer working out.

Second, bringing customers endless amounts of fries, sides of ranch, and freckled lemonades is just as fulfilling as bettering the campus through public service.

Third, don't try and get involved in other ASUN Programs or Services. You never know when a brick might come flying through your windshield.

More confused than before, Driscoll made his way to Vegas to talk with Samantha Goldstein, the loser in 2005. She suggested working in a different part of the service industry, where you start out as a waitress, but end up on stage by the end of the week. And the dollars fill your g-string and the hole in your soul at the same time.

Don't worry Chris, we too are here to offer our advice. Never take less than $20 when a patron asks for the "manager's special." We wish you luck as the new "bouncer" at the Men's Club.

poor, are being called the comeback of the year. Fraternity GPA has risen by 64% to a 3.8 overall after spring midterms. Already, University Administration and ASUN representatives are in talks to build each chapter a brand new house on a newly devised Fraternity Row. Originally, the 50-year Master Plan did not include any perks to specific Clubs, Organizations, or Greek chapters, but this new overall warmth has breathed new life into their image (undoubtedly sparked by the GPA spike).

This Fraternity Row will include a variety of amenities that would make even Bluto proud. Existing houses can be relocated to the new central area with ample space for debauchery. Each house is set to have a moat and drawbridge to avoid attacking PSMs. There will be a Beer Garden complete with a 24-7 Keystone Light well, where Fraternity men can quench their thirst of the filthy swill they are accustomed to. An all-night Hooters where DGs will cook and Pi Phis will dance will be available to anyone who can get past the TriDeltas working security. Theta will clean dishes. The time line for this construction will start within the year, and Coffin and Keys will be there to watch Fraternity GPA fall once again.

Spring 2007 - April Fool's Edition

COFFIN & KEYS REVEALED!!!!

The Men Behind the Masks

This year, the Men of Coffin & Keys have unanimously decided to lift the veil of secrecy, and make our identities known. This is not the first time we have done this. Up until the late 60's, Coffin & Keys was not a secret organization. Members chose to don their masks to avoid retribution from the administration.

Due to the softening political climate and new University President, in April 2007, it must happen again. This is a landmark year because it represents a high point for student apathy. Every year, students become more selfish, the only things standing the way of complete disengagement are solid basketball & football seasons and the few dedicated student leaders remaining. We are unveiling to better connect to the student body and make everyone question their role at this University.

Turn the page, and prepare to be mind-bottled; this edition contains some of the most profound revelations since The Bible.

History

On the night of October 24, 1916, ten men representing each of the various factions existing at the time at the University of Nevada, and comprising men of all walks of college life, met together with the idea of promoting the common good. The consensus was that a force was needed to give the proper impetus to affairs of school life. At the time, the rivalry among the various groups threatened to supplant the steadfast loyalty to the University that all its citizens should unite in giving. It was evident that unless energetic steps were taken at once, our community would become a collection of wrangling cliques instead of a united whole. Under such conditions, no progress would be possible. The very life of our University would be threatened. Realizing this, and bound by a pledge to work for the common good, these men founded this society in which all the component parts of our school may be represented around the council table.

I'm Lovin' It

Anyone who has been to a senate meeting this past year witnessed more than felons making choices on behalf of the students. They would also get a glimpse of the dashing young ladies-man destined to become the greatest Speaker of the Senate this university has ever seen.

Sean McDonald is no doubt the greatest officer that ASUN has seen in a long time. His accomplishments are so numerous that we cannot even name them. The men of Coffin and Keys have complete faith in his abilities to effectively and efficiently run this new group of budding campus leaders.

Sean's interpersonal skills are unmatched. Nobody that has watched as much C-SPAN as Sean could possibly be more in touch with the current undergraduate. Negative and unmerited attacks on fellow ASUN officers will disappear under his reign. His precise knowledge and execution of Robert's Rules of Order as a committee chair this past year proves that he will not only teach this new senate about true ethics in politics but also that tyranny has no place in ASUN.

Traditions of ASUN excellence actually run in his family. DNA tests have proven that he is a direct relative to former ASUN President, prominent racist, and proclaimed lunatic Bill Hamma, whose unmatched intelligence continues to riddle senate meetings and letters to the editor in the Sagebrush.

We only hope that one day his persona will be given the respect and credit it deserves as a selfless man of the people who never put his own interests first.

Fazekas is Back!

Taking a page from our rivals to the South, Nick Fazekas will be back for more Nevada basketball (Kevin Kruger of UNLV played this year as a 7th year senior). In our secret interview with Fazekas, we convinced him that his 5th and 6th year senior seasons as a college player would be worthwhile. It's true, the WAC Player of the Year and 2nd Team All-American has been persuaded by Coffin and Keys. With what you ask? Why, with freshmen sluts from every sorority (even Theta), our patented "Coffin & Key-to-Muscle Enhancement" protein shakes, and the prospect of membership into Coffin and Keys. So UNLV, you may have gotten lucky and made it to the Sweet Sixteen this year, but with our not-so-secret-weapon returning, Nevada fans can look forward to EVEN BLUER balls for years to come!!

All April-Foolery aside, Nick Fazekas is the best player to ever wear Nevada silver and blue. We thank you for the SportsCenter coverage and urge you to drink those shakes. Bulk up son, or Shaq will toss you around like a premature baby in a washing machine.

Turning the Page

Chris Driscoll spent his spring break looking for answers after losing the race for the ASUN presidency. He began by visiting Brad "Fruity Face" Naughton, the loser of the 2006 elections, at Red Robin. Brad has quickly moved up the ranks there, going from waiter to bar tender over the course of the past year and offered Chris some sound advice.
